

Zagreb, 17.03.2014.

Poštovani,

Pozivamo Vas na predavanje profesora emeritusa Davida P. Farringtona pod naslovom „Saving Children from a Life of Crime: The Benefits Greatly Outweigh the Costs!” koje će se održati u Zagrebu, 11. travnja 2014. godine.

Profesor David P. Farrington radi na Cambridge University i najpoznatiji je po studiji The Cambridge Study in Delinquent Development u kojoj razvija teoriju perspektive životnog puta u kontekstu kriminaliteta. Proveo je jednu od najdužih longitudinalnih studija delinkvencije mladih i kriminaliteta odraslih. Teoriju bazira na istraživanju multidimenzionalnih korijena kriminalnog ponašanja. Detaljnije o dostignućima profesora Farringtona i profesionalnom interesu nalazi se u prilogu poziva.

U svojem predavanju profesor Farrington će se osvrnuti na rizične i zaštitne čimbenike, učinkovite programe, financijsku isplativost intervencija, preventivne strategije usmjerene na rizik te potrebu stvaranja nacionalnih agencija za ranu prevenciju.

Profesor Farrington boravi u Zagrebu povodom radnog sastanka na Europskom projektu Communities that Care (CTC) European Network: Making CTC work at the European Level čiji je partner i Edukacijsko-rehabilitacijski fakultet Sveučilišta u Zagrebu.

Vrijeme predavanja:

- 11. travanj 2014. godine od 11.00 do 12.30 sati

Mjesto predavanja:

- Sveučilište u Zagrebu, Zvonimirova 8 (velika dvorana, prizemlje)

Jezik predavanja:

- engleski

Zbog ograničenog broja mjesta u dvorani molimo Vas da svoj dolazak potvrdite na e-mail adresu: mferic@erf.hr do 09.04.2014.

S poštovanjem,

Voditeljica za Hrvatsku EU projekta
Communities that Care (CTC) European Network: Making CTC work at the European
Level Dekanica

Prof. dr. sc. Josipa Bašić

Prof. dr. sc. Antonija Žižak

December 11, 2013

CV - Professor David P. Farrington

Director of Research and Emeritus Professor of Psychological Criminology

David P. Farrington, O.B.E., is Director of Research, Emeritus Professor of Psychological Criminology, and Leverhulme Trust Emeritus Fellow at the Institute of Criminology, Cambridge University.

He received the Stockholm Prize in Criminology, and the Freda Adler Distinguished Scholar Award of the American Society of Criminology Division of International Criminology, in 2013. He is a Fellow of The British Academy, The Academy of Medical Sciences, The British Psychological Society, The American Society of Criminology, The Association for Psychological Science and The International Society for Research on Aggression.

Professor Farrington has received B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in psychology from Cambridge University and an honorary degree of Sc.D. from Trinity College, University of Dublin. He is a Chartered Forensic Psychologist, Chair of the Division of Developmental and Life-Course Criminology of the American Society of Criminology, a member of the Board of Directors of the International Observatory on Violence in Schools, a member of the Campbell Collaboration Crime and Justice Group Steering Committee, joint editor of the journal Criminal Behaviour and Mental Health, and a member of the editorial boards of 16 other journals.

Professor Farrington is also an Honorary Fellow of The British Psychological Society, Honorary Life Member of the British Society of Criminology and The British Psychological Society Division of Forensic Psychology. He has been President of the American Society of Criminology (the first and only person from outside North America to be elected to this office), as well as many other societies, associations, institutes, and professional groups<sup>1</sup>.

His major research interest is in developmental criminology, and he is Director of the Cambridge Study in Delinquent Development, which is a prospective longitudinal survey of over 400 London males from age 8 to age 56. He is also co-Investigator of the Pittsburgh Youth Study, which is a prospective longitudinal study of over 1,500 Pittsburgh males from age 7 to age 35. In addition to over 600 published journal articles and book chapters on criminological and psychological topics, he has published 95 books, monographs and government publications.

Professor Farrington has received many awards as Sellin-Glueck Award of the American Society of Criminology for international contributions to criminology, the Sutherland Award of the American Society of Criminology for outstanding contributions to criminology, the European Association of Psychology and Law Award for Outstanding Career-Long Contributions to the Scientific Study of Law and Human Behaviour, the Joan McCord Award of the Academy of Experimental Criminology for Distinguished Contributions to Life-Course Criminology, the Jerry Lee Award of the American Society of Criminology Division of Experimental Criminology, for life-time achievements in experimental criminology, the Robert Boruch Award of the Campbell Collaboration for Contributions to Research that Informs Public Policy, the Beccaria Gold Medal of the Criminology Society of German-Speaking Countries, the Senior Prize of the British Psychological Society Division of Forensic Psychology, the U.S. Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Outstanding Contributions Award and the Hermann Mannheim Prize of the International Centre for Comparative Criminology.

---

<sup>1</sup> http://www.crim.cam.ac.uk/people/academic\_research/david\_farrington/